THE NEW YORK MUDDLE
Seems to be Cleaning Up—Best Element For Gov. Sulzer

The whole country is thoroughly disgusted with the fight over the governorship of the State of New York. The whole trouble is due to the fact that Governor Sulzer would not do the bidding of Tammany Hall. The first demand that Tammany made on Sulzer after he became Governor was to pardon Charles Becker, the police captain who had been sentenced to death for having plotted and caused the murder of Rosenthal, the gambler, last year. The ridiculous part of the whole impeachment proceedings is the fact that Sulzer is being impeached for acts which were committed before he became governor, and no official is impeachable except for acts committed while in office. A still more ridiculous thing is that Sulzer is not being impeached because he is a bad governor, for he is not, and he has never during the sixteen years he was in Congress voted for any measure but what was worthy and patriotic. He is being impeached because he is a good governor and refused to take orders from Tammany Hall and her horde of cut-throat politicians and thugs. If Charles F. Murphy is allowed to kick Sulzer out of the gubernatorial chair, New York will have to hang her head in shame until the present generation shall have passed away.

Tariff Bill Favors The Farmers

Some of these senators have been claiming that the Underwood tariff bill discriminates against the farmer. This is untrue, for the bill places everything on the free list that the farmer has to buy, namely, plows, harrows, harvesters, and in fact all farming implements as well as wire fencing and wire, nails, and furthermore, it places every article of food and clothing that he uses on the free list and it is only right that the things that he produces should also be on the free list, because the free listing does not injure him and it merely prevents or helps to prevent the formation of trusts.

For instance, the beef trust has been able to maintain its monopoly because our tariff shuts out foreign beef and the wheat supply of the country has also been cornered by one or two operations, which sent the price of flour up without conferring any benefit on the farmers who raised the wheat. Tariff on farm products is a sham. They never helped the farmer because we are exporters of foodstuffs, and not importers.

Mexican Situation

President Wilson deserves the gratitude of all peace loving citizens for the skill with which he has handled the Mexican situation. The trouble would not have been so serious but for the willful falsehoods that have been published in some of the newspapers of the yellow variety. They first had it that Europe was sending us 30 day ultimatums demanding that we protect the rights of their citizens in Mexico or abrogate the Monroe Doctrine. This was a lie out of the whole cloth, as no European country has had the slightest notion of sending us an unfriendly letter. Furthermore, the European countries have troubles enough of their own in the Balkans right at their back door which has been a much worse mess than Mexico has kicked up.

Letter From Rev. S. M. Bernard From Far Off California
August 23, 1913

Dear Editor:-

As you sit in your editorial sanctum trying to solve the problems of your readers, thought you would like a word from one way out on the Pacific Coast who frequently catches a ray of light from your good paper.

Next to the preacher and the public school teacher the editor is in a position to be the most useful man in the world. Glad to know that you are improving your opportunities and are making a mark in the world of letters and at the same time you are lifting your worthy readers to a higher plane of living.

As I preached in Kentucky many years (am still a young man) thought it would not be amiss to write a news letter to your paper, as I cannot find the time to write a long epistle to each old friend who happened to hear me preach in my native state.

"I love you, California," is the State song which is sung here as frequently as you sing the "Old Kentucky Home" there. That reminds me that they pressed me into service in a baseball game recently at Long Beach, and I played short-stop for nine innings on a Kentucky University team and we had a good time giving the Kentucky yell and singing the "Old Kentucky Home."

There is a Kentucky organization in the Angeles which holds monthly socials and keeps up the old feeling of love for home.

Every Kentuckian is proud of his native State and is not slow to exhibit it.

Religious conditions out here are about as follows—good church buildings, much activities among the people who are members, there being very few drones in the bee hive, but there is a vast amount of work yet to be done as a large percentage of the population seems to be seeking after the two most popular Gods of this world, money and pleasure. It is much easier to get an attendance at a picnic than at a prayer meeting.

When a religious convention is held at the Beach the people turn out in large numbers two thousand not being an unusual number in attendance.

Finance is about the same here as in other parts of the country. The banks are holding on in their loans awaiting the action of Congress on the Tariff bills. This has the tendency to cause a temporary stagnation in business circles but the merchants look forward to a good trade in all lines in the Fall.

The weather out here has been fine this summer. Had to use heavy cover every night and there has generally been a breeze stirring during the day. Some people think California summers are better than the much advertised winters. It is this kind of weather—While eating meals you will instinctively get up and go to the door or window and close it to cut off the breeze from the ocean. You have your choice here of a vacation in the mountains or at the seaside. I took both.

The ocean suits me better. I like its salt air, its ships, its ceaseless roar, its healthful bathing. Its salt air cured our baby boy of the whooping cough, invigorated his mother, rejuvenated his brother and put new

$2,000 SADDLE HORSE STAKE BANNER FEATURE KY. STATE FAIR

Seventeen Blue-Blooded Equine Monarchs Have Been Entered In This Contest for Rich Prizes at the Big Louisville Show In September

(Special)—Seventeen royalty bred "Monarchs of the Equine World" are to be pitted against each other in the great $2,000 Commissioner of Agriculture Stake for five-gaited saddle horses, which will be the banner event of the Kentucky State Fair, to be held in Louisville, September 15-20, according to the list of entries which closed on July 1.

The premium is the highest ever offered in a contest of this kind, and has attracted the most important owners and exhibitors of the country. The $2,000 sum is divided into seven different prizes, and one of the conditions of the contest being that the entry money for all over 15 contests shall be added to the first premium, makes this enticing prize figure up to $680.

The honor of being "in the money" at all in this stake is one coveted by the leading owners and exhibitors of blue-blooded stock in the country, and the struggle for supremacy among the seventeen is destined to be a formidable one.

The roster as it stands for 1913 includes P. W. Ray & Son, of Bowling Green, Ky., who will probably fight for first prize with Black Whirlwind, a contestant, who is truly a "dark horse," being totally unknown to ring frequenters, but who is reputed as formidable as its name. Mat S. Cohen, of Lexington, Ky., will very likely enter the celebrated Mary Yandell Fox who took third prize last year after he won the fifth premium in the 1912 Kentucky State Fair Stake.

Allen R. Edelen, of Burdin, Ky., will in all probability show a promising daughter of Bohemian King, and Gen. John B. Castileman, of Louisville, either his famous Carolina or Marguerite.

J. T. Collins & Son, of North Middle town, Ky., will enter a horse never shown heretofore.

Matiack & Shropshire, of Winchester, Ky., have taken two entries and will likely make a strong bid for first honor with Hazel Dawn, the beautiful winner of the 1912 prize, and the great gelding Jack Barrymore.

Powhatan Woolridge, Pewee Valley, Ky., has also doubled his chances and it is surmised that he will enter a very fine saddle mare and his celebrated Richilieu King.

W. S. Nicol, Woodburn, Ky., will come in with an unknown, as will Thurman & Peters, of Springfield, Ky.

R. F. Moreland, Lexington, Ky., will more than likely choose as his entry a full brother to the celebrated Nickel Plate, and Ball Brothers, of Versailles, have several likely prospects, among the number being the great Sadie Macy.

James Green, of Louisville, Ky., will show the bay stallion, Happy Chief, one of the celebrated sons of Bourbon Chief.

H. C. Barham, Milan, Tenn., promises to uncover a horse new to the wits of the ring.

The entry of A. G. Jones, North Middle town, Ky., has not yet been named, but it is supposed he will show either the Princess V. or Marvel King, brother to the noted stallion Bourbon King.

Miss Lulu Long, of Longview Farm, Lee's Summit, Mo., has entered My Major Dare, the splendid $10,000 beauty which she purchased last year after he won the fifth premium in the 1912 Kentucky State Fair Stake.

Allen R. Edelen, of Burdin, Ky., will in all probability show a promising daughter of Bohemian King, and Gen. John B. Castileman, of Louisville, either his famous Carolina or Marguerite.

There is life into the father.

Los Angeles is our city, we being but a short distance from it on the electric line. Its rapid growth, its push, its beautiful streets and homes, its great business houses make it a very desirable abode. Must close for this time. Best regards to all.

Tariff Debate Nearing a Close

The country is greatly relieved to know that the tariff bill will be passed either the latter part of August or the early part of September. Some of the standard parties have recently made unwarranted attacks on the bill.

Be Honest—Even With Railroads

Athens, Ga., Aug. 19.—Under the heading, "Be Honest Even With The Railroad," the Banner of this city makes the following editorial comment regarding the contention of the railroads that the Post Office Department is underpaying them for handling the mails:

"To carry the people's mail quickly, safely and frequently is a social obligation which the railroads freely concede. It is a service voluntarily performed, for no law compels a railroad company to carry mails unless it contracts to do so. The courts hold, however, that if the railroads, so contract, they must do so on terms named by the government.

"Though surrounded by these anomalous conditions, the railroads have without stint placed their resources at the disposal of the Nation to develop the transportation of mails to the highest possible state of efficiency. This service has been paid for at a price fixed by the government, a price from which the carriers have had no appeal. Railroad officers have felt, ever since the present method of railway mail payment was established in 1873, that this compensation was unreasonably low.

"This opinion is still held by experienced railroad officers throughout the country, but with even greater firmness and earnestness, on account of the increasing costs of railroad operation combined with frequent heavy reductions in railway mail pay made by the government.

The United States government, in 1912, paid the railways $51,697,374.49 for carrying mail. This was about 20.95 per cent. of all postal revenues. In 1901 the railways received 34 per cent. of the postal revenues. In that same year, 1901, the Joint Committee to Investigate the Postal Service, of which Senator Wootton was chairman, reported to Congress its opinion that the prices now paid to the railroads for the transportation of the mails are not excessive. Yet, in 1907, Congress reduced railway mail pay by $2,723,000, about five per cent., and the postmaster general, upon his own initiative, by administration order, made a further reduction of nearly $5,000,000, about ten per cent.; an aggregate reduction of $7,700,000 per annum, or fifteen per cent.

A Professional Love Letter Writer

In the September American Magazine appears, under the title, "A Handy Man With The Pen," the confession of a man who is a professional writer of love letters, after dinner speeches, obituary pieces, etc. The following is one of the stories he tells about writing love letters for a customer:

One day last fall a handsome young man, much embarrassed, appeared, and after some hesitation confessed that he had neglected his education, and was corresponding with a young woman whom he was very much in love. She was a college graduate, and he desired to have his letters as well written as hers were; so he wants me to write them. I advised him to write simply and as he talked, but he persisted, and twice a week he came, informed me concisely and briefly what he wanted to say to her, and I wrote the frills into them. He copied the letters himself, blushing frequently as he read what I had added in the way of sentiment. That young lady received some of the most wonderful love letters ever written. They were married during the winter.

SHOOTING AT FORDSVILLE.

Cressie Greer Probably Fatally Wounded
BY Clarence Keowan.

Hartford Ky., Aug. 25.—Cressie Greer, aged nineteen, was shot and probably fatally wounded in the Fordsville telephone office, in this county, today, and Clarence Keowan, a brakeman on the L. & N. railroad, is under arrest charged with the shooting.

Some domestic difficulties are said to have been responsible for the shooting.

Mrs. M. E. Waddill Dies in Owensboro] Mrs. M. E. Waddill the mother of C. J. and O. W. Waddill, of Madisonville and Mrs. O. W. Rash, of Owensboro, died at the home of Mrs. Rash Saturday and was brought to Madisonville Sunday and buried at the Odd Fellows Cemetery. She was the sister of C. J. Pratt formerly Attorney General of the State and Circuit Judge in this district many years ago. Mr. Waddill was 71 years old. Her death was caused from acute indigestion.

"What is the Matter With the World?"

The solution of this age-old problem is easy. The remedy for all the ills afflicting the human race may be readily found, when once the cause is ascertained. As effect follows cause so a remedy to be effected must be applied to the source of the trouble.

There is one cause for all political corruption, social evils, financial frauds, industrial ills, liquor traffic, wars, poverty, disease, strikes, lockouts, shame, misery sorrow and suffering.

There are many branches to the great tree of evil, and reformers have been hacking away at them from time immemorial but anyone looking out over the world will be forced to the conclusion that most of the evils of our time are growing ones.

Was there ever a time when preparations for war were on such a gigantic scale? Were the industrial ills ever as serious as today? The fearful spread of social evil, the terrible white slave traffic, the number of divorce cases, the more than sixty percent of humanity afflicted with loathsome diseases, the terrible immorality, all attest the awful condition of our race.

It is a little peculiar to say the least of it that the Louisville Courier Journal never missed an opportunity to boost the Eastern portion of the state, especially the coal industry and is absolutely deaf and blind to developments in Western Kentucky. Every time a little one-horse coal mine is opened or a new shaft dug in Eastern Kentucky, the Courier Journal gets up in its hind legs and howls about the wonderful progress being made etc. There have been new mines opened, new coke washers erected and various other improvements made in the coal fields of Western Kentucky and the Courier Journal never mentioned it. Why this partiality? The majority of the Eastern Kentucky trade goes to Cincinnati, the whole of the Western Kentucky trade goes to Louisville. The good old county of Hopkins is sixth in population and first in coal production in the state and we want what is coming to us.

INTO ARMS OF LAW

By J. A. TIFFANY.

I had been engaged in the practice of law for a period longer than I care to state before I made as much as a policeman earns.

But, now, I had been fortunate enough to secure the appointment of municipal court judge.

This had been my first day of office, and there had not been a single case for trial. It looked as if my experience as a private practitioner was to be repeated in my official capacity. Even the law-breakers and litigants stunned me.

I was aroused from my meditations by the sound of footsteps.

In a few moments a man's figure appeared in the open doorway. He was unmistakably from the country.

A clumsy, ungainly man, apparently about forty-five years of age, he advanced toward my desk with steathy, nervous step. The fellow had a hunted look.

"Say, mister," he said, in a whisper, "what will you charge to get me off?"

"Off what?" I asked.

"Well, I don't want to tell, but I suppose I shall have to; it's all over town. Please don't let them take me to jail, mister."

"What's the trouble? What have you done?" I asked the fellow. "But, as we well warn you, before you go any further," I added, remembering my new appointment, "that I am a judge, as well as a lawyer."

"You a judge," the yokel exclaimed, in a tone of horror. "Oh, gosh I've run right into the arms of the law, when I was trying my best to escape. Please, sir, don't send me to jail," the fellow whined.

"If you are in need of professional advice, I think you had better go to another law office, and not tell me anything about your troubles," I said. "I can't send you to jail until you are brought before me in the ordinary course of justice."

"But, I don't want to go to jail at all, judge. I didn't think they would hold it against me all these years. I haven't been in the city in thirty years, and if you'll only let me go this time, I'll promise never to come here again."

"Now, see here, my man," I said sharply, for the fellow was becoming tedious. "If you have anything to say to me, I will listen to it, and treat it confidentially, so far as I can. Either tell me your troubles, or go and tell them to some other lawyer."

"No," said the man, desperately, "I'll make a clean breast of it to you, judge. You see, mister, when I was a boy—thirty years ago—I came to the city one day, in my father's sleigh; and while the old man was around town doing his business, I played about the stable where he put up his horse. There was a lot of snow on the ground, and some of the city boys began calling me a hayseed, and pelting me with snowballs. I didn't like it—not so much the snowballing as their calling me a hayseed. So I made some snowballs myself and shied back at them. Well, just as I was throwing a good hard ball at one of the boys, a policeman came round the corner, and it knocked off his hat. I started and ran as hard as I could. I never stopped till I got to my father's farm, away out in the country, ten miles from here. I laid awake all that night, expecting that they would be coming for me; and I've been expecting them ever since. But, as I had not heard of it in all these years, I plucked up courage and came in today, thinking it had all blown over. But I see that I was mistaken. They're after me."

"What makes you think they are after you?" I asked the fellow.

"There's notices all over the city," the man whined.

"What kind of notices?" I asked.

"I haven't seen anything of them."

"Why, one says, 'Bill posters beware, and another, 'Bill posters will be prosecuted!'"

"What's your name?" I asked, as a light seemed to break in on me in all this nonsensical tragedy.

"Posters," the man replied. "William Posters. But they generally call me Bill—Bill Posters."

"Ah, I see," I said, with a sigh of relief. "And you want to settle this quietly—without any exposure?"

"Well, this is a case, I am afraid, that can't be settled with a fine," I said, rising and confronting the villain, who shrank from me, and crowded near the door.

"You won't send me to jail, judge?" he pleaded.

"No, we'll settle it without that," I said. "Just turn round."

As Mr. Posters turned his back on me, I gave him a good, heavy kick, that sent him clear through the doorway.

"Is that all?" he asked, with a buccal smile.

"Yes, that's all—for the present," I replied. "But, if you ever come near this office again, I'll give you a good deal more than that. Now—good-bye, Bill Posters, and get back on the farm, where you belong."

ECZEMA OF THE SCALP.

After 20 Years Suffering, Saxo Salve Brings Relief.

"For 20 years I suffered with dry eczema of the scalp during which time I had tried every so-called eczema remedy on the market without benefit. At last I saw Saxo Salve advertised and decided to try it and after using one tube, for the first time in 20 years I am free from that terrible itching and scaly dandruff. I wish every one suffering from eczema or other skin troubles only knew what a wonderful remedy Saxo Salve is."—T. F. Thompson, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Saxo Salve allays the frightful itching and burning of eczema, destroys the germs and heals the skin.

You can't do better than to try it for eczema, tetter, ringworm or any skin affection. We give back your money if Saxo Salve does not satisfy you. Bernard M. Cox, D.C., Incorporated Drug Department, Earlington, Ky.

Taking Steps to Check The Spread of Water Lillies

Taking advantage of the low water in Loch Mary, the St. Bernard Mining Co. has men at work in an effort to check the spreading of the water lilies, which threaten to occupy the entire lake bed. Although beautiful to the eye, there are several disadvantages connected with the presence of the lilies: the principal being the fact that the decay of the plants in autumn contaminates the water. By cutting the plants before seedling time it is thought that their growth will be effectively checked.

New Mineral Spring Proved Popular

ELECTRICAL GOODS

Are now on display at the Idle Hour Picture show and I will sell them at a reasonable price. These Irons, Toasters and such like use very little current, not more than a 16 candle power light and they save a great deal of time and worry. When you have one or two garments to iron, or wish to have toast and eggs for lunch, these electrical appliances save building afire in the stove and do away with the extreme heat of a cooking stove which is almost unbearable in hot weather. Any one who is interested may have the electric irons demonstrated in their home.

Early customers will have best selections at these remarkable prices. We are making room for our fall stock as the room is worth more to us than to carry over our summer stock for regular prices. LAST CALL of the SEASON.
